

FUND STRATEGY

K33 Assets I is an actively managed fund with the goal to maximise long term investor returns by capturing the value accrual of cryptocurrencies as an asset class. We do this by offering long exposure to sound projects with strong fundamentals in the crypto space.

Furthermore, the fund makes tactical adjustments to its allocations across the crypto asset risk spectrum depending on expected macroeconomic conditions.

Finally, we allocate a small part of our assets under management to discretionary trading, a mix of opportunistic event-driven strategies, employing derivatives strategies, short selling, arbitrage, staking and various investments in the decentralised finance ecosystem. The carefully selected and diversified cryptocurrency exposure ensures that the fund can excel regardless of whether it is Bitcoin or other cryptocurrencies that succeed.

FUND POSITIONING AND NEAR TERM OUTLOOK [JAN 2024]

Our outlook for 2024 is bullish, and we believe that the brunt of the impact from the new spot ETFs will be felt over the year as opposed to immediately after approval. The ETFs are widely available, scale very well and the regulatory risk of crypto has been drastically reduced compared to the start of 2023. In an increasingly disconnected world, BTC has a clear long term value proposition of being a maximally independent asset.

Bitcoin's improved availability will have a positive impact on the market as a whole and we maintain altcoin exposure based on allocations made to categories alt L1s, DeFi and non-L1 scaling & infrastructure.
